Tell us about you

Passionate and versatile psychologist willing to change, at least a bit, the world that it's in our hands. I love learning and being surprised by new cool things that come into my life.

I like: to add love on everything I do and walk The Camino de Santiago to break away.

I dislike: hypocrisy and selfishness.

My favourite food is: cheese.

What's your English background

Bilingual education was the choice my parents made for my siblings and me. Nowadays is a tool that gives me new chances to communicate and make friends all over the world. Learning languages is one of my passions that allowed me to learn, study and work abroad.

Currently, it lets me join innovative educational projects.

Your summer camp goal

NePa Summer Camp is a new adventure for me where I can apply all my experience with children and at camps in an unique environment with crossed goals and a working team motivated by passion.

Why nature? From my point of view connecting with nature allow us to connect with the essence of human being. I couldn't imagine a more stimulating environment to accompany children to discover how this learning thing goes.

Why working with children? Since I started being involved with psychology I have been connected with children. I consider kids need from all of our love and assistance to grow up as adults that are able to handle life changes.
